DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 21 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is unclear how the terms major and minor further the scope of a surface.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in-

- (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
- (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

Claims 21-23 and 26-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Holman (US 6,005,776).

Holman (Fig 2, 3) discloses an inherent process of providing a high density module (200m) produced by a process comprising the steps of inherently providing a circuit board (210) having a substantially top planar surface (via in a plane) for connection to at least one integrated circuit package (Abstract) and electrically connecting at least one integrated circuit package (via assembly provides package for IC; Abstract) having a major surface (via surface with greater length; vertical portion) and side minor surface (via horizontal portion) with at least one said side surface extending from said major surface and having electrical side surface terminals (240) thereon in intimate contact with and electrically connected to said printed circuit board at said top surface; including an inherent step of electrically connecting at least two IC packages to said circuit board (Fig 2) in a substantially perpendicular ("perpendicular"; Abstract) manner at an angle inherently between 30 and 90 degrees to said circuit board; further including the steps of inherently disposing a solder ball (240) between side surface terminals of said IC package to said board (Col. 3, Lines 54-55); wherein at least three pads (320) are short projections and therefore are tabs.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 24 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Holman.

Holman does not appear to disclose the use of a solder columns. However, examiner takes official notice that solder columns were well known at the time the invention was made and that it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate solder columns to the terminal side of Holman in order to connect the package to the board of Holman as well as provide increased fatigue life.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claim 21 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection. However in an effort to expedite prosecution of application, examiner has addressed relevant arguments made by applicant that pertain to current pending claims.

Applicant alleges that Holman has nothing to do with direct connection of an integrated circuit package. Examiner respectfully disagrees; Holman explicitly discloses the use of integrated circuit package per its abstract and specification that teaches the package mounted and routed on a printed circuit board. Thus, any argument by applicant that the prior art "has nothing to do with... connection of an IC package or module" is deemed moot.
